Versions of themselves? Dartmouth researchers mined 180 million tweets from 900,000 users to understand how different versions of themselves were perceived. They found that people who presented as more assertive and confident were perceived more positively by others. This research highlights the importance of self-presentation in social interactions and the potential impact of online personas on real-world outcomes.

Desyrel 50 Trazodone
Can you overdose on trazodone 150 mg?
Trazodone for sleep 50 mg