because women with polycystic ovaries don't menstruate regularly, they are also at higher than normal risk for endometrial cancer, a malignancy of the lining of the uterus.